CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

This chapter presents the conclusion of what has been analyzed and discussed in the previous chapter as the finding of this research.

The data of this study is a short story that is Tanya’s Reunion by Valerie Flournoy. It is taken from “Reading Florida” book by David J Chard and team. The researcher focus on grammatical cohesion.

There are two research questions in this thesis. From the first research question, the researcher got reference – personal reference, demonstrative reference, and comparative reference; substitution – nominal substitution and verbal substitution; ellipsis – nominal ellipsis, verbal ellipsis, and clausal ellipsis; and conjunction – additive conjunction, adversative conjunction, causal conjunction, and temporal conjunction but clausal substitution did not find in this short story.

Then the second research question, the researcher got the dominant device of grammatical cohesion is reference. The researcher got 69.95% especially on personal reference. It can be seen the percentage from the chapter 4 and appendix to know the detail data.
5.2 Suggestion

After doing this research, the researcher hopes that this study can help us to more understand about cohesion especially grammatical cohesion in the discourse domain.

In doing this research, the researcher used the short story of Florida reading book as her object. On the next research, she hopes that there will be different kind of the study object. For examples we can take an article in the internet, news in the newspaper, talk show in TV program and a novel.

Regarding the limitation of this study, she hopes that there will be another study which discuss about cohesion deeply than this research. Hopefully this study has benefit for the teachers, the students, and the further research.
