H. Detailed material
I. Tenses

Definition

The form of a verb which shows the time at which an action happened.

Example:
- We played football (happened in the past time)
- We will play football (in the future time)
- We play football (in the present time)

II. The characteristic of Tenses

- Present: Verb 1 (added by s/es)
- Past: Verb 2
- Future: Will/Shall + Verb 1 or be going to + Verb 1
- Perfect: Have/has + Verb 3
- Continuous: Be + Verb-ing
- Nominal: Be + 3 complements (noun, adjective, adverb)
- Passive: Be + Verb 3

III. The Simple Present Tense

Definition

A verb tense that expresses action in the present time, habitual actions, or general truths.

1. The function

- The main use of simple present tense is to express daily habits or usual activities.

  Ex: He performs prayer everyday, Dogs bark, The baby always drinks milk, I usually read the newspaper in the morning, she often visits her grandmother once a year.
This tense doesn’t tell us whether or not the action is being performed at the moment of speaking. In sum, the simple present is used for events or situations that exist always, usually, or habitually in the past, present, and future.

❖ It expresses general truth
   Ex: the fire is hot, a week has seven days, the sun rises from the east.

❖ It shows ability
   Ex: Bella sings beautifully, Etik can dance “Kecak dance” very well.

❖ It shows the time which is fixed in accordance with the schedule (timetable).
   Ex: our class begins at 7 o’clock, The plane arrives at 9 pm tonight.

❖ It can be used in the newspaper headline.
   Ex: Israel attacks palestine, mass murderer escapes

❖ It states a series of action (commonly used by a narrator of Dramas, Operas etc., and radio commentators at sports events, public functions, etc.)
   Ex: -When the curtain rises, Juliet is writing at her desk. Suddenly the window opens and a masked man enters her room.
   - Torres runs and gets the ball from Hazard, and then he kicks it to Gerard, finally GOALLLL!!!!

❖ It is used, mainly with the verb say, when we are quoting from books, notices, or very recently received letters:
Ex: “what does that notice say?”; it says, ”No parking.”; the book says, “practice makes perfect.”; Faiqoh says in her letter that she is coming to Bali next week.”

- It is used for Imperative form.
Ex: “Be your self!”; “Don’t be childish!”

- It is used for non progressive verb.
Ex: I understand about grammar (not i’m understanding about grammar), I know that I love you (not i’m knowing that I love you).

#non-progressive verbs:

Verbs of the senses: feel, hear, see, smell, notice, observe, look, taste.

Verbs expressing feeling and emotions: admire, adore, appreciate (=value), care for, desire, detest, dislike, fear, hate, like, loathe, mind, love, respect, value, want, and wish.

Verbs of mental activity: agree, appreciate (=understand), assume, believe, expect (=think), feel (=think), forget, know, mean, perceive, realize, recall, recognize, recollect, remember, see (=understand), see through, suppose, think (=have an opinion), and trust.

Verbs of possession: belong, owe, own, and possess.

The Present Perfect Tense

b. Definition
An aspect of the verb expressing an action that began in the past and which has recently been completed or continues into the present.

c. The Function

- It is used with just for a recently completed action
Ex: he has just gone out (He went out a few minutes ago), she has just completed the assignment (her assignment is done now and might be submitted to the teacher then).

- It is used for recent actions when the time is not mentioned. It occurred before the present time. The exact time is not mentioned; it is unimportant or unknown. The important is that the activity has done in the past, sometime before now.
Ex: I have told you everything, but you still do not understand; “Have you eaten?”, “Not yet.”

- The action happened in the past and the result still affects to present.
Ex: I have washed my hair (It is wet now), She has cleaned the floor (the house is clean now).

- The action started in the past and it is still going on at present.
In this case, it frequently uses adverb of “for” and “since”.
Ex: Mr. Arfyan has lived in Poso since he was 17, The teacher has taught for one hour.

- It is used for an action which lasts throughout an incomplete period. The action actually begins in the past, doesn’t complete at present, and maybe continues in the future. Time expressions include for, all day/night/week/year, all mylife, all the time, always, lately, recently.

Ex: He has been in the army for two years (he is still in the army), we have waited you all day (we are still waiting), he has lived here all his life (he still lives here), he has always worked for us (he still works for us).

- It is used for actions occurring in an incomplete period. An incomplete period may be indicated by this morning/afternoon/evening/week/month/year/century, etc. In order to be well-understood, it will be explained more followed by the picture:

Imagine that the postman normally comes between nine and ten. From nine till ten we will say:
Has the postman come yet/this morning?
But after this nine to ten period we will say:
Did the postman come this morning?

We use the past tense here because we are thinking about a complete period of time eventhough we do not mention it.

- It is used to state an action which ever, never, often, or once happens and it frequently adds with before.
Ex: I have often visited the graveyard of Walisongo before, she has never been to Bali all her life.

d. Present Perfect vs. Simple Past Tense

- Simple past tense states an event/action happened in the past and there is no relation with the time being in the present. While present perfect is used to state an action happened in the past but there is still connection with the present time.

  1. My father taught in 1984. (simple past tense) the simple past expresses an activity that began and ended in the past. It means that my father is not teaching anymore or maybe he has been retired.

  2. My father has taught since 1980. (present perfect tense) it means that my father is still teaching until now.

- The simple past expresses an activity that occurred at a specific time (or times in the past). The present perfect expresses an activity that occurred at an unspecified time in the past.

  Since I have been here
  Since 10 o’clock.
  Since Monday.
  Since April.
  Since 1984.
  Since yesterday.
  Since last month

  Since is followed by a specific time such as an hour, a day, a month, a year, etc. Since expresses idea that something started at a specific time in the past and continues to the present.

  - I have lived here since I was a child.

6. Summary
An aspect of the verb expressing an action that began in the past and which has recently been completed or continues into the present. Also known as the present perfective.
The present perfect is formed by combining has or have with a past participle (usually a verb ending in -d, -ed).
The prime factor which is felt to influence the use of the present perfect over the simple past is a writer's feeling that a past action is relevant to a particular current situation. This situation is to be found in the context of present perfect statements and would most naturally be expressed in the present tense.
Two conditions for the use of the present perfect are then seen to be:
1) the existence of a situation to which past actions can be related, and 2) the expression of this situation in the present tense.

Exercise 5

Instruction: There are some present perfect verbs in the 'Language in context' passage below!

Over the last twenty years, the average size of households has fallen dramatically. The number of one person households has grown, due largely to the ageing of the population, as has the number of one parent families. Couples having smaller families have also contributed to the fall in household size.

In 1976, 60% of families were couples with children. By 1996, this had fallen to 51%. Part of this change can be attributed to the increase in one parent families with dependent children, but most of the change is due to the increase in the proportion of couple only families. People are now having children later in life, and are living longer. Therefore, they are spending more time living in couple-only families, both before they have families and after their children have left home.
However, children are leaving home later. In 1981, 34% of children aged 20-24 lived with their parents. By 1991, this had increased to 40%. This increase has, to some extent, countered the fall in the couples with non-dependent children only.

Qw+ Has + He/She/It+ Been + Verb-ing + Object/Adverb?
Qw+ Have + I/You/They/We+ Been + Verb-ing + Object/Adverb?

c. The function

- It is used for an activity that began in the past and continues to the present.
  Ex: my uncle has been living in Bandung since 1960, we have been waiting for him for two hours.
- It is used for an activity began in the past and finishes at the time of speaking.
  Ex: Oh, here is my key! I’ve been looking for it all day; Where have you been? I haven’t been seeing you for days.

d. Present Perfect Continuous vs. Present Perfect

Present Perfect Continuous expresses the duration of present activities that are in progress. Ex: They have been talking on the phone for twenty minutes.

Present Perfect expresses repeated activities that occur at unspecified times in the past. Ex: Rita has talked to Josh on the phone many times (before now).

Present perfect also express the duration of present situations, using non-action verb such as Rita has known Josh for two years. Both present perfect and present perfect continuous can express an activity that began in the past and continues to the present using particular verbs. Those verbs are habitual/usual activities/situations include expect, hope, learn, live, look, play, rain, snow, stand, study, teach, wait, want, work, etc. Example:

✓ He has worked in that hotel for ten years. or he has been working in that hotel for ten years.
✓ They have learned English here since 1990. or they have been learning English here since 1990.

Present perfect sometimes can be replaced with present perfect continuous to show repeated action.
✓ I have written letters this morning.
✓ I have been writing letters this morning.

Note: Both sentences actually have the same meaning, but the second sentence tends to mean write continuously while the first sentence doesn’t necessarily mean to write continuously. It needs to be emphasized that present perfect continuous cannot be used to express many actions and the number of the objects. For instance, I have written five letters this morning NOT I have been writing five letters this morning.

The present perfect continuous describes an action that started in the past and continues in the present and future. It takes the form have + been + verb -ing. The description is focused on how long an action has continued. It also describes actions that have finished recently and have results in the present. Present perfect continuous is different from the present perfect tense because it focuses on how long an action happened, or the present results of an action. It uses “for” and “since” to show the amount of time an action has happened.

The past simple can also be used with a habitual sense, to refer to a series of past events that occurred on a regular basis. Often, when used in this way, the verb is accompanied by an adverbial that underscores the regularity of the situation described:
Example
a. Every morning, I walked to the office, no matter the weather.
b. My mother always went to the fish market on Mondays.
c. Whenever I played football I would injure myself.

The habitual meaning expressed here by means of the past simple can also be expressed with an alternative grammatical pattern. This involves a special habitual form, used to, plus an infinitive verb. Each of the examples in can be rephrased using this pattern without change of meaning:

The New Archaeology

Over 20 years ago, Old World archaeologists recognized\(^1\) that the chronologies of European prehistory, which had been based on the radiocarbon dating method, were\(^2\) incorrect owing to flaws in the method. Another chronology has been proposed\(^3\) that has resulted\(^4\) not simply in the redating of individual monuments but rather, in terms defined by British archaeologist Colin Renfrew, in the establishment of a new approach to prehistoric cultural development. Previously, cultural achievements such as the development of metallurgy were thought\(^5\) to have radiated from a single point of invention in the Middle East. Now, multiple sites of invention have been posited\(^6\), leading to a conception of humans as much more innovative than previously supposed.

Since the 1980s, archaeologists in North America, Australia, and New Zealand have increasingly been called upon\(^7\) to adapt their research strategies to the wishes and interests of indigenous peoples, who have not only demanded\(^8\) the return and reburial of human skeletal remains and certain artefacts but also insisted\(^9\) that their cultural values be respected when excavations are conducted. The accommodation of scientific research strategies to traditional cultural sensitivities marks a new direction in archaeological practice and is a development that was scarcely contemplated a few decades ago, when it was assumed that rigidly scientific objectivity would soon dominate archaeology.

QW+ to be + subject + verb-ing + object/adverb

- Qw + Was + He/She/It/I + Verb-Ing + Object/Adverb
- Qw + Were + They/We/You + Verb-Ing + Object/Adverb

c. The Function

- To express an action occurred in progress in the past (usually it uses a point in time).
  Ex: At 7 o’clock yesterday, Ibnu was visiting Adim; My sister was bathing her baby at seven this morning.

- To indicate gradual development in the past.
Ex: At the same time yesterday, Kina was getting better; the sky was getting darker; the wind was rising.

- To express a duration of an action occurred at specific time in the past. Usually it uses adverbs of time like all day, all night, all afternoon, all morning, from seven to ten, etc which is combined with adverbs time of simple past tense.
  Ex: It was raining hard all day two days ago; My sister was studying from eight to eleven last night.

- To express two actions happened together in the past in which the first action occurred in progress when the other action happened then. The first action is expressed by past continuous tense, while the second action is expressed by simple past tense. In this case, it usually uses when, while, and as. When can be used for past continuous tense and while/as is only used for past continuous tense.
  Ex: When/While/As I was studying, someone knocked at the door or can be I was studying when someone knocked at the door.
  Above sentence cannot be changed into :
  I was studying while/as someone knocked at the door.

The other example:
* I was walking down the street when it began to rain. Or
While I was walking down the street, it began to rain.
Both actions occurred at the same time, but one action began earlier and was in progress when the other action occurred.

- To express two actions occurred in progress together/simultaneously. It uses while or can be whereas.
Ex: My father was washing the car while my mother was cooking in the kitchen; We were studying whereas my sister was listening to the radio.

- For a definite arrangement in the near future (immediate plans) that occurred in the past.
  Ex: - He packed his clothes. He was leaving for Jakarta that night.
  - She bought some flour. She was making some cake.

- To express an action that would be happened in the past, but it was cancelled.
  Ex: - I was visiting him but he suddenly came to my house.
  - They were going out but their uncle came to visit them.

- It states an action which was repeated frequently and the frequency annoyed the speaker or seemed unreasonable to him. It is usually signed with always, constantly, forever.
  Ex: He was always calling her at nights.

- It is used to give descriptions towards series of event in the past. The description is in the form of past continuous and the narrative is stated in simple past (It is bolden below).
  Ex: A wood fire was burning on the hearth, and a cat was sleeping in front of it. A girl was playing the piano and was singing softly to herself. Suddenly, there was a knock on the door. The girl stopped playing. The cat woke up.
It can replace simple past tense to indicate a moral casual / not deliberate action.

Ex: I was talking to Faiq someday.

This sentence gives the impression that the action was not unusual, who started the conversation is not clear, and it doesn’t matter.

It is different from this example:

I talked to Faiq some day.

It is clear that “I” who started the conversation in advance.

It uses to make more polite notion than using simple past tense.

Ex: What were you doing that night? It sounds more polite than What did you do that night?

6. Summary

Past continuous is used to express a continued or ongoing action in past, an ongoing action which occurred in past and completed at some point in past. It expresses an ongoing nature of an action in past. For example, “he was laughing.” This sentence shows ongoing action (laughing) of a person which occurred in past. Past continuous tense is also called past progressive.

Hannah met Jamie in the summer of 2004. It was Hannah’s 21st birthday and she and her friends went to a club. They wanted to dance, but they didn’t like the music so Hannah went to speak to the DJ. ‘This music is awful,’ she said. ‘Could you play something else? The DJ looked at her and said ‘Don’t worry; I have the perfect song for you.’
Two minutes later he said: ‘The next song is by Coldplay. It’s called Yellow and it’s for a beautiful girl who is dancing over there.’ Hannah knew that the song was for her because she was wearing a yellow dress. When Hannah and her friends left the club the DJ was waiting at the door. ‘Hi, I’m Jamie,’ he said to Hannah. ‘Can I see you again?’ So Hannah gave him her phone number.

Next day Jamie phoned Hannah and invited her to dinner. He took her to a very romantic French restaurant and they talked all evening. After that Jamie and Hannah saw each other every day. Every evening when Hannah finished work they met at 5.30 in a coffee bar in the High Street. They were madly in love.

One evening in October, Hannah was at work. As usual she was going to meet Jamie at 5.30. It was dark and it was raining. She looked at her watch. It was 5.20! She was going to be late! She ran to her car and got in. At 5.25 she was driving along the High Street. She was going very fast because she was in a hurry.

Suddenly, a man ran across the road. He was wearing a dark coat so Hannah didn’t see him until it was too late. Although she tried to stop, she hit the man. Hannah panicked. She didn’t stop and she drove to the coffee bar as fast as she could. But when she arrived Jamie wasn’t there. She phoned him, but his mobile was turned off, so she waited for ten minutes and then went home.

Two hours later a police car arrived at Hannah’s house. A policewoman knocked at the door. ‘Good evening, Madam,’ she said, ‘Are you Hannah Davis? I’d like to speak to you. Can I come in?’

   The Past Perfect Continuous Tense

   a. Definition

The past perfect progressive (continuous) is used to describe an action that started in the past and was still in progress when a second action started. Both actions began and ended in the past.
b. The Form

Verbal sentence

POSITIVE
Subject + Had + Been + Verb-Ing + Object/Adverb

NEGATIVE
Subject + Had + Not + Been + Verb-Ing + Object/Adverb

YES-NO QUESTION
Had + Subject + Been + Verb-Ing + Object/Adverb

QUESTION WORD
Qw + Had + Subject + Been + Verb-Ing + Object/Adverb

c. The Function

❖ It emphasizes the duration of an activity that was in progress before another activity or time in the past.
Ex: - The police had been looking for the criminal for two years before they caught him.
   - Eric finally came at six o’clock. I had been waiting for him since four-thirty.

❖ The action had been done in the past and the result could be felt then.
Ex: - When I got home, my hair was still wet because I had been swimming.
   - I went to Jane’s house after the funeral. Her eyes were red because she had been crying.
It expresses an activity started in the past and finished or continued until another time in the past.
Ex: - The phone had been ringing for five minutes, but no body came to answer it.
- I had been waiting here for an hour when my friend finally appeared.

To express an action that had been done repeatedly in the past.
Ex: - He had been trying to open the locked door. It is same as the action stated in past perfect He tried over and over again to open the locked door.
- He had been looking for his missing driver’s license.

It is used in indirect speech from the direct speech of present perfect continuous tense.
*Ex: A: “I have been waiting for you since 3 o’clock.”
Indirect speech:
He told me that he had been waiting for me since 3 o’clock.*

d. PAST PERFECT VS. PAST PERFECT CONTINUOUS

- Past perfect tense expresses an activity that finished in the past while Past perfect continuous is to an activity that still continued/had not finished yet in the past.
Ex: past perfect tense: By ten o’clock, the workers had painted the house. (pada pukul 10 para pekerja telah selesai mengcat rumah)

- Past perfect continuous: The workers had been painting the house for the last two hours. (para pekerja dari tadi mengecat rumah selama dua jam terakhir).
e. PAST PERFECT CONTINUOUS VS. PAST CONTINUOUS TENSE

- Past perfect continuous states an action that was still in progress for few times when another action happened.
- Past continuous tense states an action that was in progress (not knowing how long it happened) when another action occurred.

Compare:

I had been watching television for two hours when she called. (past continuous tense)
I was watching television when she called. (past continuous tense)

6. Summary

- Past Perfect Continuous Form
  The past perfect continuous is composed of two elements - the past perfect of the verb to be (=had been) + the present participle (base+ing).

- Past Perfect Continuous: Function
  The past perfect continuous corresponds to the present perfect continuous, but with reference to a time earlier than 'before now'. Again, we are more interested in the process.

- This form is also used in reported speech. It is the equivalent of the past continuous and the present perfect continuous in direct speech:
  Jane said "I have been gardening all afternoon." Jane said she had been gardening all afternoon.
Exercise

Exercise 1: change the verb in the bracket into present perfect continuous or past perfect continuous tense!

     Ex: The phone is ringing. I will answer it.
  b) Prior plan (S+ be+ going to+ v1)

In the same case, we can also use present continuous tense to express planned event/prior plan.

Ex: - My father has an appointment with my class advisor. He is seeing her next Sunday.

- A: “Hi Bella, what is your agenda this afternoon?”
  B: “I am meeting my classmate after lunch. We are buying some books in AMEDIA. Would you like to come along?”

6. Summary

It is used to express an action which has not occurred yet and will occur after saying or in future. For example, “I will go to zoo tomorrow”, in this sentence the person intend for tomorrow’s visit to zoo. In short, these sentences express actions which will be done in future.

Rules. Auxiliary verb “will” is used in sentence. 1st form of verb or base form is used as main verb in sentence.

The negative form of Will can be contracted as Won’t, whereas the negative form of shall can be contracted as Shan’t.

USE 2 "Will" to Express a Promise

"Will" is usually used in promises.

Examples:
I will call you when I arrive.
I promise I will not tell him about the surprise party.

USE 3 "Be going to" to Express a Plan

"Be going to" expresses that something is a plan. It expresses the idea that a person intends to do something in the future. It does not matter whether the plan is realistic or not.

Examples:
He is going to spend his vacation in Hawaii.
She is not going to spend her vacation in Hawaii.
A: When are we going to meet each other tonight?
B: We are going to meet at 6 PM.
I'm going to be an actor when I grow up.
Michelle is going to begin medical school next year.

USE 4 "Will" or "Be Going to" to Express a Prediction

Both "will" and "be going to" can express the idea of a general prediction about the future. Predictions are guesses about what might happen in the future. In "prediction" sentences, the subject usually has little control over the future and therefore USES 1-3 do not apply. In the following examples, there is no difference in meaning.

Examples:
The year 2280 will be a very interesting year.
The year 2280 is going to be a very interesting year.

John Smith will be the next President.
John Smith is going to be the next President.

The movie "Zenith" will win several Academy Awards.

6. Summary
The future perfect continuous tense describes a continued action at some point in the future. We use the Future Perfect Continuous to show that something will continue up until a particular event or time in the future. "For five minutes," "for two weeks," and "since Friday" are all durations which can be used with the Future Perfect Continuous. Notice that this is related to the Present Perfect Continuous and the Past Perfect Continuous; however, with Future Perfect Continuous, the duration stops at or before a reference point in the future.

Examples:
They will have been talking for over an hour by the time Thomas arrives. She is going to have been working at that company for three years when it finally closes.

Exercise 4

Read the following short story and identify the tenses used. Each tense is used at least once.

John has always traveled a lot. In fact, when he was only two years old when he first flew to the US. His mother is Italian and his father is American. John was born in France, but his parents had met in Cologne, Germany after they had been living there for five years. They met one day while John's father was reading a book in the library and his mother sat down beside him.

John travels a lot because his parents also travel a lot. As a matter of fact, John is visiting his parents in France at the moment. He lives in New York now, but has been visiting his parents for the past few weeks. He really enjoys living in New York, but he also loves coming to visit his parents at least once a year.

This year he has flown over 50,000 miles for his job. He has been working for Jackson & Co. for almost two years now. He’s pretty sure that he'll be working for them next year as well. His job requires a lot of travel. In fact, by the end of this year, he'll have traveled over 120,000 miles! His next journey will be to Australia. He really doesn't like going to Australia because it is so far. This time he is going to fly from Paris after a meeting with the company's French partner. He'll have been sitting for over 18 hours by the time he arrives!

John was talking with his parents earlier this evening when his girlfriend from New York telephoned to let him know that Jackson & Co. had decided to merge with a company in Australia. The two companies had been negotiating for the past month, so it really wasn’t much of a surprise. Of course, this means that John will have to catch the next plane back to New York. He'll be meeting with his boss at this time tomorrow.

It's Sleepytime, Nighty Night, Sis

"Well I see you are finally here, Cynthia." Carol said to her sister as the screen door banged shut. "Where have you been? I've been waiting and waiting for you. You said you would be here an hour ago. Remember? Three o'clock, not four o'clock?"

"I know," Cynthia answered, "I was too tired. Working night shift is just too much sometimes. When I got in bed this morning, I had it all planned, timewise, I mean. I set my alarm clock and thought, now let's see, by two o'clock, I will have slept for eight hours. That will be perfect. Eight hours will be plenty. Well ha, ha, sure didn't work right. Too many interruptions. When I sleep at night, I sleep well. I have slept well ever since Lennie moved out three years ago. But this daytime stuff, that's another story."

Carol cleaned up the kitchen sink while Cynthia continued, "I did go to sleep right away. I was sleeping when Barbara walked by with that loud yappy dog of hers, and woke me up. Then I drifted off to sleep again, no problem. I had been sleeping for two hours when the phone rang for Molly, and woke me up. So then I got up and had a little bit to eat. Maybe the food was a mistake, I don't know. It took me a long time after the snack to go back to sleep."
A. Proses Penilaian Perkuliahan

Pengambilan nilai dalam mata kuliah Structure I ini menggunakan Sistem Evaluasi Penilaian sebagaimana dalam Buku Panduan Penyelenggaraan Pendidikan IAIN Sunan Ampel Tahun 2012 yang terdiri atas 4 macam penilaian:

1. Ujian Tengah Semester (UTS)

2. Tugas

Tugas merupakan produk (hasil kreatifitas) mahasiswa dari keunggulan potensi utama yang ada dalam dirinya. Hasil kreatifitas dapat disusun secara individual atau kelompok yang bersifat futuristik dan memberi manfaat bagi orang lain (bangsa dan negara). Petunjuk cara mengerjakan tugas secara lebih rinci diserahkan kepada Dosen pengampu. Skor tugas mahasiswa maksimal 100.

3. Ujian Akhir Semester (UAS)

4. Performance

Performance, merupakan catatan-catatan keaktifan mahasiswa dalam mengikuti perkuliahan mulai pertemuan pertama hingga pertemuan terakhir antara 14–16 pertemuan. Dosen dapat memberi catatan pada setiap proses perkuliahan kepada masing-masing mahasiswa dengan mengamati: (1) ketepatan waktu kehadiran dalam perkuliahan, (2) penguasaan materi (3) kualitas ide/respon terhadap materi yang dikaji, dan lain-lain (Dosen dapat menambah hal-hal lain yang perlu diamati).
Dosen merekap seluruh catatan selama perkuliahan, dan memberi penilaian performance pada masing-masing mahasiswa dengan skor maksimal 100.
Dosen dapat mengcopy absen perkuliahan, untuk memberi catatancatatan penilaian performance atau membuat format sendiri. Catatan penilaian performance tidak diperkenankan langsung di dalam absen perkuliahan mahasiswa.

B. Nilai Matakuliah Akhir Semester
Nilai matakuliah akhir semester adalah perpaduan antara Ujian
Tengah Semester (UTS) 20%, Tugas 30 %, Ujian Akhir Semester (UAS)
40 %, dan Performance 10 %.
Nilai matakuliah akhir semester dinyatakan dengan angka yang mempunyai status tertentu, sebagaimana dalam tabel berikut.

Keterangan:
a. Nilai huruf C- dan D pada matakuliah akhir semester harus diulang dengan memprogram kembali pada semester berikutnya

b. Nilai huruf C dan C+ boleh diperbaiki dengan ketentuan harus memprogram ulang dan nilai huruf semula dinyatakan hangus/gugur

c. Rumus menghitung nilai matakuliah (NMK) akhir semester:

NMK = \frac{(NUTS \times 20) + (NT \times 30) + (NUAS \times 40) + (NP \times 10)}{100}
\]

NMK = Nilai Matakuliah
NUTS = Nilai Ujian Tengah Semester
NT = Nilai Tugas
NUAS = Nilai Ujian Akhir Semester
NP = Nilai Performance

d. NMK bisa dihitung apabila terdiri dari empat komponen SKS, yaitu: UTS, Tugas, UAS, dan performance. Apabila salah satu kosong (tidak diikuti oleh mahasiswa), maka nilai akhir tidak bisa diperoleh, kecuali salah satunya mendapat nol (mahasiswa mengikuti proses penilaian akan tetapi nilainya nol), maka nilai akhir bisa diperoleh.

e. Nilai akhir matakuliah, ditulis nilai bulat ditambah 2 angka di belakang koma. Contoh: 3,21, 2,80, dst.
